To Whom It May Concern:

On behalf of the Chinese Biological Investigators Society (CBIS, <https://www.cbisociety.org>) and its President, Professor Hao Wu of Harvard University, I cordially invite you to participate in the 12th Biennial Conference of CBIS to be held in Shenzhen, China, December 21–25, 2018 and invite your company to sponsor our conference.

CBIS, formally the Ray Wu Society in honor of Professor Ray Wu, is an international nonprofit organization of professionals of Chinese origin in life sciences, aiming to provide a platform for interaction, collaboration, and advancement of life sciences in China. Members of the society are principal investigators in academic institutions and research scientists in industry, mostly residing in North America.

Shenzhen is a must-see city in southeastern China right across Hong Kong. It is a flag-post of China's economic progression as its first Special Economic Zone. By placing the conference at Shenzhen, and co-hosting with Southern University of Science and Technology (南方科技大学) and Chinese Society for Cell Biology (中国细胞生物学学会), we hope to attract more life science researchers from Mainland China, Hong Kong, Macau, Taiwan, Singapore, Japan and the rest of the world, and more students from nearby universities to attend. For the benefits of Shenzhen's universities, their faculties and students, as well as the life sciences and healthcare communities, we very much appreciate your generous donation to make this important conference a success.

Please refer to the attached Exhibit for Sponsorship Opportunities and Benefits.

We are looking forward to your positive reply.

Sincerely,

Charlene Liao, Ph.D.
Board Member of CBIS, President and CEO of Immune-Onc Therapeutics, Inc.
